A WORTHY WORK.

THE OTHER MAN'S DUTY.

The local branch of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce now being a living institution nothing is more fitting than that its first undertaking should be the promotion of interest in road building.

It is stated in the call elsewhere in these columns that it is the very first regular meeting to be held on the first Monday in April, this work will be commenced. The matter of road improvement has been discussed on a state-wide scale more or less seriously during the past several weeks. The agitation in favor of doing something like seven million dollars of government aid provided the meets the requirements. This means that she must appropriate an equal amount for the work. Each county in the state is to share in the fund in proportion to its co-operation in the work.

It is plain, then, that the government is only undertaking to help those who are willing to help themselves. Resolutions endorsing good roads—the kind that have been adopted at myriads of conventions throughout the state for the past several years—make no allowance for the daily newspapers, but they don't actually get to the point where government funds are available for checking purposes. It takes something more real than resolutions. That is what the people of the state are beginning to realize.

Does Bulloch county want to "hook up" with the movement while it is moving? That will be answered by the actions of the people. Wishing for good roads and criticizing those who are doing their best with the means at their disposal to give them to us, will not get us anywhere in the good roads movement. Statesboro tried that with her streets for thirty years, and finally she saw the light. She bonded for $30,000 for paving, and she will soon be out of the mud and dirt. That is the only way any city or county can get good roads. They for them in hard cash. Half a million dollars spent by Bulloch county, added to a similar amount from the federal treasury, would build one hundred miles of paved roads in Bulloch county. That much good road would be worth millions of dollars to the property of the county. The roads would be permanent, and the cost of up-keep would be insignificant. Bulloch county is not going to get all the roads she wants without some big movement like this. She won't take the step this year, nor next, nor the next; but some time she will, and then she will wonder why she waited so long.

THE DELAYED HOME-COMING.

The brief message from the war department addressed to Quilman Stanford and announcing the going out of his boy in far-away France, well-nigh crushed the hearts of the father and mother. No one but a parent can know the sorrow that it brought to them. And none but those who have heard the words, "He is gone," can appreciate the anguish.

But the news of the death of Lewis Stanford reached out and grasped the hearts of many who did not know the lad. They were touched because of the anxious zeal with which the father had sought every atom of hope for the coming home of his boy. Not a day passed but that he was not inquiring of friends whose information he trusted, if there was word of the coming of the Eighty-second. His boy was a part of that division—was all of it to him! He never passed a friend without the query was made. With patience he restrained himself as best he could, and hoped that each day might bring some hope of the lad's early coming. He had received no word for months, yet he was not discouraged for that.

The day's paper had a little item concerning the coming of the division, and the father's face was aglow as he read it. And then—

The letter was placed in his hands which crushed his hope—the boy is dead.

Twenty-four hours had passed, and friends who had read the news concerning the coming of the regiment, and not knowing of the tidings which the father had received—not noting or understanding the tear-stained eyes—greeted him with the glad news that his boy was coming home. They had read in the paper of the coming of the Eighty-second which had meant so much to him. "Your boy is coming home soon!" One told him. And the sorrow that filled his heart was pitiable to those who saw—and understood.

It is only another of the tragedies and disappointments of life, and yet the father found consolation that his son had done his duty and had fallen at his post of honor.

SOMEONE recently demanded to know of the Augusta Chronicle editor: "Why don't you d— newspapers speak out against this wave of anarchy and sedition that is sweeping the country? What are the newspapers for if they will not speak out against such outrages and stand up for the rights and interests of the public?"

And when the editor put the question back to him, what he was doing to put down the wave of anarchy, and to uphold the "rights of the people," he was ready with an excuse. He would do it but—

"For certain reasons," he was "not in position to say anything publicly." His business was such that he could not afford it.

Commenting, the Chronicle editor says that "Is about the same answer you will get from the average man, if you will press him; the merchant (who has goods to sell), the manufacturer (who can't afford to disturb labor conditions in his own factory), the banker (who might offend some of his customers), the lawyer (who can't afford to antagonize prospective jurors), the physician (who has patients on both sides of the question), and, of course and inevitably, the politician (who is always with the side where the votes come from)."

There are men everywhere who believe in the right—demand that others should do it—and yet are afraid to stand for it themselves. They not only demand to know why the newspapers fail, but they hold in scorn every other citizen who shrinks or shrinks. They are loud in their censure of the officers for failure to enforce prohibition laws, and condemn the sheriff's office or the prosecuting attorney for dereliction of duty and incompetency, or even connivance at lawlessness. Call on one of these critics to help you and see how easily he can slide into a hole.

A sheriff of a certain county recently had reason to suspect that a certain man was violating the prohibition law by concealing liquor in large quantity on his premises. He could go upon that man's premises without a search warrant, and he could not issue a warrant on his own volition. In good faith he called upon three different well-known citizens, whose sympathies were with law enforcement, and asked them to make the affidavit that would give him the authority to act. They were morally certain that the man was violating the law, and they wanted him held up, but—"No, I just can't afford to sign an affidavit." He was a patron of one, and that man could not afford to lose his business; another was his neighbor and didn't want to make the man angry, and the other man—well, he also had an excuse which satisfied him. What was the sheriff to do?

There are always patriots who are anxious to have the law enforced, but they want the other man to do it for them. "Let George do it," we are too busy with our own affairs. We admire your grit, but don't let our names appear in it."

ZIRON Iron Tonic Proved The Right Remedy For This And Other Troubles.

"Sometime back," writes W. T. Palmer, of Spartan, Ga. "I was in a run-down state. My nerves were all torn to pieces. It was an effort for me to do my work. I did not rest well at nights. I felt tired when morning came, and didn't feel like starting my day. My skin was much. My appetite was poor. I felt very much in need of a tonic. I thought it was the lack of iron and decided to try Ziron. As I heard there was no better tonic made, I began taking it and can easily and gladly say it did me a world of good. Ziron is a good all-around tonic for young and old, and makes one feel that life is worth living."

SOLDIERS NOT REQUIRED TO RETURN UNIFORMS

Postmaster E. M. Anderson has received instruction from the War Department to decline to accept for return to the department uniforms of discharged soldiers, and to notify the soldiers that they are permitted to retain their uniforms.

A bill to this effect was passed by congress shortly before the adjournment of the term, but there has been some uncertainty as to its operation and many have followed the instruction given them for the return of their uniforms at the time they were discharged.

CERTIFIED COPIES OF DISCHARGE PAPERS ACCEPTED

Under a ruling of the War Department promulgated this week, certified copies of discharge papers will be accepted as the basis of claims for the $60 bonus allowed discharged soldiers. The order originally required the return of the original papers, but it is said that many soldiers preferred to forfeit the bonus rather than run the risk of losing their papers in transit. Certified copies are required to be made before the enlistment officer at the point nearest the home of the discharged soldier.

Expectant Mothers

View Event Calmly

Time Brings Knowledge That by Use of Penetrating Remedy Suffering is Avoided.

Thousands of women have found by the application of Mother's Friend, the penetrating external remedy, prepared especially for expectant mothers, that pain and suffering during the labor is avoided, and that in addition the months preceding the birth are free from nervousness, indigestion, flatulence, bearing-down pains and general discomfort. Mother's Friend makes it possible for the expectant mother to herself actually actuate in the glorious work of preparing for the birth of her child, and as no woman should regret to give nature a helping hand, it is well to begin the use of Mother's Friend at the first signs of pregnancy, and to continue its use until the birth of the child. The order of Mother's Friend is sent soft and natural, and experienced mothers say that it is much better to keep their heads and good looks during the period of expectation than to try to resist them afterward.

Write the Broadland Regulator Company, Dept. G, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for interesting literature, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend and begin its use at once.

WRITING NOTES, UNSEATING
KINGS, TURNING THE WORLD
UPSIDE DOWN.

(J. Fred Eden, in the Christian Index)

A writer of notes has "turned the world upside-down," while near-great men lampooned, grew sarcastic, and faint would have done away with him.

A modern prophet of God has set America as a city upon a hill, whose light cannot be hid.

The leader of "a race of money-grubbers" has become an upsetter of kings, a father of new-born nations.

A "radical school-master" has revolutionized the diplomacy of the world and done to death the money-faced secrecy of international chicanery.

A son of a preacher has been the instrument in Jehovah's hands of putting "the fear of God" into the souls of men, in the nations of his footstool.

The head of America's democracy has with unequalled power proved the "pen is mightier than the sword."

The man of superb Christian patience has written freedom for the down-trodden races of tyrannical oppression.

The heart-hunger of the autocrat's minions has found expression in the speeches and state-papers of our president.

The tearing up of a "scrap of paper" has been effectively answered by the penning of dynamic words on a few more scraps of paper.

A world of turmoil has journeyed through a four-year campaign to a "peace of justice" and a league of nations.

An age of suspicion and selfishness closes in a day of generosity and unselfishness and world-kind.

The peoples of our sphere have heard the call to freedom, liberty and international justice.

A "few speeches and notes" defeated the armies of Bulgaria, brought the disintegration of Austria, unseated the Prussian Kaiser and turned the nations to seeking democracy.

A nation of freemen, stirred by Pilgrims and Puritans, brought 100-day victory after four years of defeat.

A republic of might and right and power went forth on the great crusade to "make the world safe for democracy."

The races of all continents were joined together in camp, march, trench and battle; the stranger peoples of far-away tribes have become community comrades, "of one blood and one kindred." The aim of George Washington is achieved.

The land of ours opened its bins and barns and storehouses and banks and harbors and homes to stem the tidal wave of Hun autocracy and domination.

The yellow river of gold begins a stupendous flow into our coffers; a steady stream of our ships begins to carry our flag to the harbors of the earth.

The races of all continents were joined together in camp, march, trench and battle; the stranger peoples of far-away tribes have become community comrades, "of one blood and one kindred." The aim of George Washington is achieved.

ANYTHING HE CRAVES IS DIGESTED BY HIS STOMACH SINCE TAKING DRECO, THE GREAT HERBAL STOMACH TONIC.

Mr. J. T. Bell, the well known farmer residing on route 2, Farmington, Ga., near Athens, declares in a signed statement for publication:

"My stomach has been in a bad condition for a long time, and I could not eat vegetables nor drink coffee, but had to always be very careful of my food, because it would lie on my stomach and burn like fire and cause awful aching. My bowels were bound up and I had to strain to have an action which made me very sore all over my abdomen. My sleep was broken and gave no rest.

"I've taken two bottles of Dreco, and my troubles have passed away. I can now eat sweet potatoes, beans, cabbage, drink coffee, and none of it ever hurts me. My bowel action is free and easy without straining, and I sleep sound every night. I feel good all the time now, and give all the credit to Dreco."

SHERIFF DISCOURAGED FOR LACK OF HELP

TROUP COUNTY SHERIFF MAKES PLAIN STATEMENT TO THE PEOPLE OF HIS COUNTY.

A couple of years ago the sheriff of Troup county in this state was killed by moonshiners, while in the discharge of his duty. At a special election for his successor, five candidates were in the race. The winner was S. A. Smith, and he won on his pledge to enforce the law. He has been trying to carry out his pledge. It has been shown, however, that he must have help or he cannot do it. It appears, also, that he is not getting help, but is rather hindered. Recently he made a statement which expresses determination to put the enforcement of the law squarely "on the" people of his county. It reads:

"After the unfortunate death of Sheriff W. B. Shirey in the deplorable manner in which it occurred, I was elected to fill the unexpired term, committed to the proposition of wiping out the liquor traffic in Troup county and other kindred violations of the law. Being elected subsequently at regular election committed to the same proposition, I have done, in good faith, all that I could possibly do in carrying out my promise to the people, answering calls at any time of the day or night, in all sorts of weather, no matter from what section of the county they came.

"At the recent term of the county court, the jury, by their verdicts have expressed disapproval of my action; it was reported to me that some of the jurors at this term of court, after taking an oath to render verdicts according to LAW and EVIDENCE submitted to them, have openly made the statement that they were not going to convict any cases that the officers had made.

"The judge of the court stated that the officers were too ACTIVE in the PROSECUTION of criminals. Almost without exception, gaming cases and liquor cases have been made upon the report or complaint of some one to the sheriff's office who preferred not to appear as prosecutor, and, consequently, I shouldered the responsibility in order to carry out my pledge to the people of the county.

"Hereafter I will not take the lead in these prosecutions and will not answer these calls for liquor and gaming cases, except where warrants are placed in my hands.

"I wish the good people of the county to understand, however, that I will assist them anywhere and everywhere they see fit to take the lead in the enforcement of the law."

Last Sunday morning, March 16th, at 11:00 o'clock a large number of friends, and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. T. L. Davis and celebrated her forty-fourth birthday with a surprise dinner. ATLANTA, GEORGIA

HIGHWAY PROJECTS DEPEND ON ENGINEERS

CONDITIONS MUST BE COMPLIED WITH BEFORE JULY 1 TO OBTAIN APPROPRIATIONS.

Atlanta, March 21.—The immediate question in connection with the statewide roads improvement movement is whether or not the action of the State Highway Department, in making its allotment of Federal money under the postoffice appropriation bill yesterday, is going to advance the road work or retard many of the individual counties in their enthusiasm.

Clearly there is some difference of opinion, even in the personnel of the Highway Department itself. The action of the body, however, was overwhelmingly one way; five members were of one mind and one differed in opinion as to the results.

In apportioning $1,300,000, in round figures, the Highway Department adopted a resolution, and made it a part of their official action, that every county to which apportionment was made—many of whom did not get what they asked for—must sign a contract with the engineering department within ten days after notice their proposed road program has been accepted to start work at once.

It is further notable that the Highway Department, in deciding on what basis the limited Government fund should be divided, gave no consideration to the matter of county bond issue, but worked entirely from the basis of meeting those counties which could make the definite pledge to the state body that they have money now in hand and ready with which to match the allotment of Federal money. On this basis this twenty-five counties have been put in position to begin, in the next ten days, to proceed with their plans.

There is some doubt that the engineering work can be done in thirty-five counties, and the details passed through Washington in time to begin construction work by July 1, but to meet this point the department has instructed Engineer Neal to employ a sufficient number of engineers to put all the county work of that department through without delay.

Information today is that it was the purpose of the Highway Department, in making the limited allotment, that such counties as Bibb and Chatam, and others in similar fix at this time, shall proceed with the allotment made them at this time, and when the next Federal appropriation becomes available, in July, to make them another award at that time.

Another expression of opinion from the same general source, however, is that the present Highway Department is not in position to dispense any thing beyond July in matters of allotments from Federal funds, if even at that time, in view of the fact that it is generally conceded the Legislature is going to wipe out the present body and recreate a Highway Commission, which would be pledged to nothing in the future which might be done by this body.

At the present, however, the highway department takes the position that those counties to whom aid has been extended at this time will not be able to progress their work more rapidly than to consume this allotment before July, if by then, and at that time another allotment will be made with the work. Moreover, that those counties which made applications but did not get allotments, were not in position to match the Federal money now and cannot yet start their work, therefore, can be included in the next consideration. In addition there are in that list some counties to whom allotments of Federal money has heretofore been made and that money has not yet been used by them.

There is, however, another opinion which comes from the department—the question of whether anything will be accomplished before the legislature meets from the work done by the department yesterday. Doubt is thrown on it.

The engineering branch of the department is already overworked with work; that some of the projects approved a year ago have not yet gotten to Washington, and for that reason the doubt exists as to ability to get through the county surveys and preliminary work by July. In answer, to that others of the highway department point to the fact that the engineer has been directed to employ whatever assistance he finds necessary and to throw as many other engineers as he may need into the field. The burden of success, or failure of the whole road situation, as it now stands, is put upon the engineering branch.

BOAR FIGHTS MULES WITH TELLING EFFECT

VETERINARIAN IS CALLED TO SEW UP GASHES, AND MULES ARE LAID UP FOR REPAIRS.

Bull fighting in Mexico may be thrilling enough to arouse the interest of the Mexicans, but it is dull compared to a combat which took place near Statesboro a few weeks ago, and from which two fine mules belonging to Mr. John N. Rushing, near Prentiss, are just beginning to recover.

The fight, which was during Mr. Rushing's absence from home, was between a new Duroc-Jersey boar, he had recently purchased and two farm mules. The signs were all there when Mr. Rushing came home, and they were bloody enough that he found it necessary to call in Veterinarian H. S. Hook to sew up the half dozen or more cuts upon the mules' legs.

The mules had been left loose in the lot with the boar. There had never been any trouble between them before, and there is no way of knowing how it started at this time; but when Mr. Rushing went to feed his mules he found them both badly lacerated between the legs, one gash being between five and six inches long. After the mules were properly dressed, Mr. Boar was subjected to the dentist chair and his tusks removed.

THE BEST LAXATIVE.

"My sedentary habits have necessitated the use of an occasional laxative. I have tried many but found nothing better than Chamberlain's Tablets," writes George F. Daniels, Hardwick, Vt. Mr. Daniels is proprietor of the Hardwick Inn, one of the model hotels of New England.—adv.

BOAR FIGHTS MULES WITH TELLING EFFECT

VETERINARIAN IS CALLED TO SEW UP GASHES, AND MULES ARE LAID UP FOR REPAIRS.

Bull fighting in Mexico may be thrilling enough to arouse the interest of the Mexicans, but it is dull compared to a combat which took place near Statesboro a few weeks ago, and from which two fine mules belonging to Mr. John N. Rushing, near Prentiss, are just beginning to recover.

The fight, which was during Mr. Rushing's absence from home, was between a new Duroc-Jersey boar, he had recently purchased and two farm mules. The signs were all there when Mr. Rushing came home, and they were bloody enough that he found it necessary to call in Veterinarian H. S. Hook to sew up the half dozen or more cuts upon the mules' legs.

The mules had been left loose in the lot with the boar.
